Industry Inquisition

Monday, 2 December 2024 15:50 (1h 10m)

This session has become a signature event at CHPC conferences. The rules are brutally simple. Vendors have five minutes and only three slides to put their best foot forward to the audience and the inquisitors. The panel includes industry analyst Dan Olds along with two standout students from the cluster competition who have been briefed on the vendors and their slides.

After their five-minute presentations, the presenters will be asked three questions, two of which they know are coming followed by a final, secret, question. Frank and tough questions will be asked. Answers will be given. Punches will not be pulled. The audience will be the ultimate judge of which vendor did the best job. It's fun, brisk, and informative.
